Card Index to Loyalists of Bergen County

by Kathryn Phillips Du Bois, 1960

This card file index identifies 326 Bergen County Loyalists and sources of information about them. Some of these “loyalists” were called before the Council of Safety and cleared their names. Sources include New Jersey Archives Series, New Jersey Historical Society Proceedings, and the Royal Claims Commission. Unsourced information is also reported on these cards. The researcher should use care, as with any compiled source.

After the introductory letter and cards, the loyalists are arranged alphabetically. The text is also full-text searchable.

For assistance with these cards contact the Bergen County Historical Society Library and Archives (theBCHSlibrary@gmail.com).

PATRIOTS AND LOYALISTS OF BERGEN COUNTY, NEW JERSEY.

The compilation of nine hundred and twenty five cards contains war records and biographical material of Bergen County Soldiers and Patriots of the American Revolution. It is far from complete and possibly in certain instances needs correcting. As years pass additional information might be established by further research. Individuals may feel slighted that their favorite ancestor has not been listed, but this is due to incomplete information.

The three hundred and twenty six cards for Bergen County Loyalists may surprise some people, but all of these names were not necessarily active Loyalists. They were listed as such by the New Jersey Council of Safety which was disbanded in 1778. Persons who were brought before the Council frequently cleared themselves of charges laid against them by malicious or other informers.

We know that Bergen County had many more names which could be added to the list of Patriots. Those citizens infirm, crippled or too old to bear arms loved their country dearly, giving money and moral support to the local militia. Certainly they should be listed as Patriots.

These records are presented to the Bergen County Historical Society in honor of those who have worked with me in our library. Sincere thanks is given to Dr. Lewis Haggerty, Adrian Leiby, James Ranson and Fred W. Bogert. It has indeed been a pleasure to work with Mrs. Howard Britt and Mrs. John Burnett.

American Loyalists an annual pension of 70 pounds. His claim was for 300 pounds
N.J. Archives Newspaper Extracts Vol. 5-1782
page 124.

Weart was born in 1743 died 1795. Was of Para-
mus. Perhaps the most notorious of all Bergen County loyalist. He lived in N.Y. but was forced to quit the city in 1774 for being a Tory or he would have been tarred and feathered.
Because of his knowledge of New Jersey countryside his reconnoitering activities kept him away from headquarters and delayed the granting of his commission as a Lt. in the King's Militia Vol. until 2-2-1779. He served in Capt. Peter Earle's Co. and on 3-28-1779 in the skirmish led by Col. Van Buskirk against Americans between Hoboken & Closter was hit in the knee by a musket ball and sustained an injury which crippled him for life. He was carried to N.Y. where he stayed until he sailed for Shelburne. Was son of Cornelius Banta who died about 1787. British Gov. granted him an allowance of 70 pounds from 1788 to 1804 but he died in 1795. Whether his wife Elizabeth returned is not certain, but it is said she resided with grandson Weirt and died aged 84 on 4-19-1833 at the city on Christopher Street.

Placed a Claim with Royal Commission for losses and services of American Loyalists.

Claim was for 309 pounds, had real estate received 380 pounds

He was born in Sidwell, Exeter, England in 1702 came here in 1748. On 12-8-1769 bought 110 acre farm at English Neighborhood from the Moores. Before the Rev. he commanded a militia called the Gov. Guards in the city. When the war broke out he received offers of any rank in the Continental Army under Washington if he would join them. He refused to sign the Association, w was obliged to flee aboard the "Duchess of Gordon" in 6-1776. Gov. Tryon of N.Y. appointed him a Capt. in N.Y. Rangers. In order to save his N.J. farm he rented it. He sold it to Timothy Hurst a loyalist but the property was confiscated and sold as Benson's in the spring of 1784 despite Mr. Hurst's efforts to stop the sale. Benson along with his son (Jr.) is listed as original grantees in Clements, Nova Scotia.

He was no relation to Christopher Benson.
He was a cousin to Reverend Garret Lydecker.
His brother Joh was the patriot, Justice of the Peace for Bergen County. John and his 3 brothers were farmers at Tappan.

Matthew joined the King's Orange Rangers and recruited men for Colonel Bayard's Regiment, until he went to Halifax when he was discharged and worked in the King's Brew House until the evacuation of N.Y.. His land at Mahwah was sold to Coonradt. 32-6-10 acres. Book D. of Deeds page 345

LOYALIST

John- Clayton's History page 65
There was an Englishman by the name of John Berry called John the Regular who was a terror to this section of the country during the Revolution. The Government at one time offered 1,000 Ls for his apprehension. During one of these frequent raids from the old Block House, some companies of militia under Captain Blanch and Van Valen were sent out from their rendezvous at Tappan to interrupt a foraging party of British and Refugees. They met the party near the Liberty Pole where an engagement took place. In this one engagement, Berry who was with the enemy was shot and was discovered concealed by a fallen tree by Samuel Van Valen and James Blauvelt who knew him to be Berry and raised their guns to fire upon him whereupon he begged for his life and surrendered. He was then mortally wounded. They brought him in a wagon to Hackensack and buried near the present Kansas Street.

(Abandoned Grave yard of the True Reformed Dutch Church.)

Blakeney

Loyalist

Thomas was of English Neighborhood. He was a guide to Cornwallis. He placed a claim in Royal Commission for losses and services of American Loyalists. The claim was disallowed. He listed real estate in Bergen County 400 L. He was an Irishman. In 1775 he purchased 12 acres from his father-in-law Thomas Moore who was a patriot. Thomas joined the British.

in 1776 and acted as a guide for Cornwallis's forces in N.J. He went to England in 1786. His wife was Maria born in 1751. Probably married by Rev. Garret Lydecker in 3-2-1771. His wife and her family were loyalists and after her father's death in 177 one of her 2 brothers lived in the Blakeney house, presumably to identify himself against losses of the family

He served as an Express for 17 months and was pressed into the Royal Navy. His wife did not go to England, remained here, remarried.

Blakeney
Blackeney

Card # 2

The Reverend Garret Lydecker (Q.V.) in evidence in London on 11-22-1786 was doubtful of Blakeney ownership of the house and land which he claimed as his father-in-law, Thomas Moore had taken possession of his property before the Revolution because of a dispute between Blakeney and his wife, who had since married again. The pastor had a bad opinion of the Irishman's conduct as a "private man." His memorial of 3-14-1788 is endorsed: "The Board cannot do anything fir him."

Daniel Isaac Browne V Card # 2

N.J. Hist. Soc. Proceedings 4-1926 page 228-30

According to his evidence in London , two

Association papers were directed at a County Committee in Bergen County to be drawn up one by Mr. Morris who was violent for the Rebels. Browne himself drew up the other by which it was engaged to comply with the legal orders of Congress, and this Association was adopted at the meeting against the violent one of Morris. His reason as given by him for drawing up this Association paper was to prevent people from signing a worse. He remained quiet until the arrival of the British troops in New Jersey, having been exempted from serving the militia by reason of his profession as a lawyer.

Mr. Browne was a Committeeman and a member of the Provincial Congress in 6-1776, a course taken by him on 5-3-1777, advising this course, was produced before the Commissioners in London. He could not be a member of the new Legislature in 9-1776 because he would not take the oath of abjuration of the King. He claimed that the majority of the inhabitants of Bergen County were Loyalists. The records of that county were carried away by him to N.Y. at some personal expense and danger. His commission as Major of the 1st N.J. Vol. is 11-17-1776 *He went to Annapolis at the end of the war. A.O. 13:83; A.O. 12:15,ff. 98-110; A.O. 12:63,ff. 14-15; Ind. 5605; Ontario Archives 541-3

HOPPER HOMESTEAD AT POLLILLY

Clayton's page 231

The old Hopper homestead on the Pollifly Road a division of soldiers made themselves at home for a number of weeks, the officers sleeping in the house and the common soldiers under the trees in the orchard, immediately back of the house. One night Mrs. Hopper was awakened from her slumbers by noises among the pigs in the pig pen. Mrs. Hopper at once aroused the officers and requested them to investigate the cause of the disturbance. They thereupon ran out into the darkness in the direction of the sounds and discovered one of their soldiers in the act of carrying off a struggling pig.

Considering the miscreant as a poacher on their own preserves the officers flogged him so severely that neither he nor any of his comrades ever afterwards repeated the experiment. It is not related whether Mrs. Hopper's pleasure at the rescue was of long duration, but it is probably that His Majesty's officers had as keen an appetite for Pork as their subordinates and that the pigs were soon a thing of the past.

in the war, for on 11-28-1777 the Council of Safety noted that he had lately deserted from Staten Island and agreed that if he gave security for his appearance he might be discharged from the Guard. (Minutes of the Council of Safety 111 page 166) He was indicted at the 6-1778 term of the court, having gone to Hoboken with cattle which he sold to the British. He pleaded guilty. After other offenses he was fine L 400 and imprisoned ( it was a practice to confine persons to jail until their fines were paid.) His property was advertised-N.J. Journal and Political Intelligencer for 10-18- and 11-22-1786 carried a notice dated 10-18-1786 that Cornelius Haring the agent was to sell  $\frac{1}{2}$  of 93 acres of land with house and barn in Harrington at a place called Cinderkamack formerly the property of Garret Hopper. On 5-1-1787 Garret mortgaged 95 acres where he lived to John Neafie a real estate agent, he either purchased the estate from the agent and resold it to Garret or that he bought it on his behalf. Abraham Hopper acquired it and died in 1783 but gave some of it to his son Abraham A. in 1836. book r-3 pg 322

He was a Welshman emigrated from England in 1765. Was a prosperous storekeeper in N.Y. in 1770 purchased 30 acre farm at Barbadoes Neck from Gustavus Kingsland. Soon after the Revolution Hughes had been employed by

Gov. Tryon to buy horses, wood, hay and corn and other supplies and send them to the Gov.s Island so that they would be ready when the British forces arrived. He went to N.J. 2-1776 to carry out this mission but was stricken with sciatica which confined him to his home for 9 mo

By that time the British were in possession of N.Y. and he joined them. He, however never bore arms, but served as a guide until 1778 when he went to England with his wife and 5 children.

During his service with the British forces, after giving information that Lady Washington's Light Horse were stationed in 2 barns at Tappan, guided the King's troops to the place where they killed all but 3 of the garrison. had a pension Listed- placed a claim Tor Royal Commission for losses and serices of American Loyalists, for 2,523-6-8. When he presented his claim he said he was receiving L 50 a year from the British Treasury.

His lands sold to (Captain-American lines) Garret Lydecker on 9-30-1788; on 8-2-1784; and 6-23-1784. The loyalist stated he owned 410 acres. The Garret who purchased it was a first cousin.

Son of Ryck and Mary Lydecker, born here 1729

He was a minister, born here in 1729 and graduated from Princeton in 1755. Was pastor of the Dutch Ref. Church at English Neighborhood in 1770, and served until 1776. He fled to N.Y. taking most of the church records. In his claim for compensation he stated he was in danger in N.J. because he continued to pray for the King at church services.

In N.Y. he became minister of a Dutch Ref. Ch. on Garden St. and was engaged by the British peace commissioners in America to translate their proclamations into German. He sailed for England in 1783 died there in 1794 at his son's home.

He was awarded L 1,730 and a pension of L 50.

Joined the British in 1776. Commissioned in Col. Van Buskirk's Regt. of N.J. Vol. promised him, but before this could be granted he was wounded seriously in a skirmish while guiding a British detachment across a ford at Acquackanonk. It is not known exactly whether his injury was inflicted by the American or British since the action took place at night, but he was left for dead with severe head injuries and the loss of an eye by a bayonet. After 18 mo. in a N.Y. hospital he recovered. His wife harassed beyond endurance by her neighbors abandoned her home one night in 11-1776 taking her 9 mo. infant but obliged to leave three older children at home.

Noble card 2

After walking to the Hudson River she boarded a boat for N.Y. The three children were left at Ramapo and imprisoned for thirteen months before they were taken to New York. After his death his widow and children went to England. She valued her Ramapo estate at L 973-6-5 and was granted L 400 and an annual pension of L 80 from 1782 to 1804

His knowledge of the German language was exercised in influencing the Germans in N.J. to remain loyal.

Derick of English Neighborhood

He was born 1737. A farmer. Accused of disaffection to New Jersey and arrested 7-11-1777 and his estate was confiscated the following year. On 8-2-1778 he was confined to Morristown Jail. In a petition which he sent to the N.J. Legislature he said that upon the arrival of the British Troops in 1776 his 7 horses and 29 neat cattle, the whole stock of his farm were carried off by the enemy. He took the 1st opportunity of going to Bergen and thence to Staten Island to procure compensation from the British for the properties they had taken from him. He declared that the groundless reports circulated about him made him fearful both to return home and to stay where he was until 7-1778 when he went home. He declared he had never lifted his arm against the state nor gave the least degree of aid to the enemy.

Although no further record has been found with respect to the subject of his petition, it is possible that he retained possession of his land since he conveyed a farm of 250 acres to his son Michael D. Vreeland 9-25-1821 Deeds Liber S-2 page 157 M.C.S. 84; 2 N.E. 529 arrest ordered; judgment 1778
